Art Unit: 3728

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hillelson (5,373,940) in view of Sheffler et al. (6,405,737). Hillelson discloses a lip color container for serving two purposes, comprising a main containing body having a first end (20 and 21) containing a lip color stick (14) and an extension portion (22) at a second end, the extension portion being hollow and having screw threads formed on a side thereof, a cap (21) covering the first end and a containing base (23) detachably connected to the extension portion, the containing base having screw threads to connect the containing base to the extension portion. Sheffler et al. disclose a similar container having a transparent containing base (12 or 13). To modify Hillelson to render the containing base transparent in the manner of Sheffler et al. would have been obvious in order to observe the contents of the containing base, as suggested by Sheffler et al. (see column 4, lines 3-14).

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Disclosed are lipstick containers with compartments.
